Panel

From the cemeteries of ʻAyn al-Sira

Tulunid or Abbasid, mid-2nd to early 4th centuries AH / 9th-early 10th centuries CE

Wood

W: 59.3 cm; H: 202.5 cm

Inv. no. 9520

Wooden panel, possibly a door lintel, comprising two decorative inlays decorated in the beveled style. Each features a non-symmetrical, chalice-like arrangement of undulating scrolls, teardrop motifs with Sasanian “pearl” bands, and finely incised and pierced details. Despite their individual asymmetry, the compositions echo one another across the panel, creating a harmonious composition.
