Ceiling Panel

Recovered during an inventory of the holdings in the Museum of Arab Antiquities

Wood

W: 19 cm; L: 169 cm

Inv. no. 6857

This elongated panel, probably an underbeam element from a beamed or coffered wooden ceiling, is richly decorated with carved and painted ornament: reciprocal polylobed arches terminating in arabesques flank a central field of cusped cartouches and ogival medallions rendered in a bold, contrasting color palette of dark blue, red, brown, and cream.
