Panel

Recovered during an inventory of the holdings in the Museum of Arab Antiquities

Abbasid, early 3rd century AH / early 9th century CE

Wood

W: 68 cm; H: 39 cm

Inv. no. 6853

Wooden panel carved with a composition of large arches and dwarf arcades flanking a central medallion containing a prominent tree, perhaps a Cypress representing a “tree of life”. The upper band bears a repeated inscription of the word Allah, rendered without the initial alif in each instance. The carving is notable for its angular, faceted treatment.
