Ceiling Fragment

From a tomb in ʿAyn al-Sira

Wood

W: 35 cm; L: 26.4 cm, in two pieces

Inv. no. 11641

Recovered from a tomb in ʿAyn al-Sira, this painted wooden ceiling panel, preserved in two parts, bears traces of ornament arranged around a central medallion, possibly depicting a bird, framed by three Sasanian-style “pearl” bands. Remnants of red, dark blue, and cream hint at the panel’s original vibrant appearance.
